In Detroit Classes delayed until next Monday

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Detroit drop outs who recently enrolled in the Romulus-based alternative school of choice in Detroit will have to wait at least until Monday to begin their new studies.

That date even is not 100 percent positive, since Detroit leaders are flexing their political muscles via building permit demands and Romulus school officials expressed concern what other roadblocks may be pressed before Monday.

Peter Bakema, co-owner of Baron's Schools, reportedly has contacted a nationally known attorney in case the school's opening has to be addressed by an area judge.

The school opening is also gaining national press coverage as both the New York Times, national public radio and CNN television are following the school's progress—or lack of it.

In the meantime, Romulus parents are calling school offices, homes of school trustees and even former trustees in an effort to get answers to their questions on the Detroit school issue.

Superintendent Dr. William Bedell said at least 1,000 drop out youth have already enrolled in the school program that features both the 3 R's and various kinds of marketable vocational skills.

Last Friday, Michael Teasdale, head of the Romulus-Van Buren Adult School program, said a waiting list has already been formed for entrance into the school, which is open to any young adult who has not reached his or her 20th birthday by Sept. 3, has not earned any school diploma and lives anywhere in Wayne County.

Forty five teachers reportedly have been hired to teach the classes. Romulus' role in the effort is to advise those operating the school and the disbursement of state funds provided for the classes, Bedell said.

Among the various classes being offered to students are computer technology, nursing aide training, auto body training, cosmetology and an assortment of building training skill classes.

Students will need to attend 180 days of classes totaling 990 hours by June 30 to earn official recognition of completion of studies.

One of the key perks for students at the Detroit area school is child care is provided for the students' offsprings. In addition they are given a $50 voucher every two weeks for lunch and transportation costs as long as they attend 80 percent of the classes during that two week.

It is expected that many of the questions from the public at the next Romulus School Board meeting at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 14 will be centered on the school of choice issue.

Bedell said great care was made to invite only drop out students, who were no longer listed on the Detroit School system's rolls.

Thus the school of choice will add extra critically needed funds for the Romulus school district and at the same

LeCesne sues school board

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

In a lawsuit filed in Wayne County Circuit Court, Dr. Terrel M. LeCesne, former superintendent of Inkster schools and longtime assistant superintendent of Romulus Community Schools, alleges that four members of the Inkster Board of Education conspired to fire him and in doing so violated several state and federal laws, including the Open Meetings Act.

The 10-count lawsuit, filed on Sept. 28 by his attorney, Clayton V. Johnson, on behalf of Dr. LeCesne and his wife, Gale, specifically names Inkster board members John T. Rucker Jr., Norma McDaniel, George V. Williams and Claudia Williams as the defendants in the suit.

The four are being sued individually and also in their capacity as members of the Inkster Public Schools Board of Education.

Dr. LeCesne, 57, was employed in the Romulus Community Schools system for 27 years, and was also an assistant superintendent of schools in Romulus before he was named as the Inkster school superintendent.

His appointment was effective Aug. 13, 1995. One year to the day that he was hired in Inkster, four members of the board - Rucker, McDaniel, George Williams and Claudia Williams voted to demote and transfer Dr. LeCesne from the superintendent's office to the principal's office at the high school.

Subsequently, the board also voted to fill the superintendent's position by hiring Dr. James Rutter, who at the time was serving as the superintendent of a school district in Sacramento, California.

"I believe the lawsuit and its contents speak for itself," said Dr. LeCesne. "I can't comment on its contents at the advice of my attorney."

Topless bar owner fined

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

The owner and operator of the Play House topless tavern of Romulus have been fined a total of $1,800 after six "pleas of acknowledgement" to various charges pressed by the State Attorney General's Office.

Detective Lt. David A. Early said the charges were pressed following an extensive investigation by the Romulus Police Special Investigations Unit and others on April 22 at the Middlebelt road tavern.

The local investigation came along with other police checks at topless bars throughout Wayne County (particularly in the Detroit area), as ordered by Prosecutor John O'Hair.

Play House Inc. President Michael G. McCaw appeared before the Michigan Liquor Control Commission recently accompanied by his lawyer, David L. Campbell.

Campbell entered "pleas of

The commissioner's order also stated that a 90-day suspension be imposed if the fine is not paid.

acknowledgement" to the six charges and the pleas were accepted.

Assistant Attorney General J. Courtney Smith, who represented all the law enforcement groups involved in the investigation, entered the violation report against the Play House management without objection.

According to the official violation report, undercover Romulus police officers "were approached by dancers who solicited dances in the balcony area...and that the dancers engaged in simulated acts with the officers to wit: masturbation, intercourse and fellatio."

Jacquelyn A. Stewart, state liquor commissioner, considered the fact that the Play House had no previous violations since being licensed on Nov. 19, 1990 and thus ordered a $300 fine per violation be imposed.

The commissioner's order also stated that a 90-day suspension be imposed if the fine is not paid.

Another five days was added to the sentence (if payment of the fine is not received), but it was suspended because of the Play House's previous "excellent record."

Stewart warned McCaw that "repeated violations of this nature could result in severe penalties and possible revocation of the corporation's license and permits."

Early reminded Romulus liquor establishments that the local police will continue to monitor their operations on an on-going basis.

CROP Walk will aid hungry Sunday

Area residents wishing to "take a hike for the hungry" are urged to gather at the Community United Methodist Church at 1:15 p.m. Sunday.

Walkers will earn money for the local and worldwide Christian-based "feed the hungry" program by getting sponsors to sign a pledge card to donate a flat rate for the walkers' efforts or a certain financial amount per mile.

The CROP walk will travel from Romulus to the Trinity Episcopal Church in Belleville. Local funds will later be presented to the Helping Hands Thrift Store of Romulus and two agencies in Belleville.

To participate walkers simply need to register by at least 1 p.m. Sunday. The Community United Methodist Church is located at Olive and Bibbins (across from the Romulus Police Headquarters). Refreshments will be offered to participants at the end of the walk.

New hunters earn certificates

The Romulus Police Department with the assistance of VFW Post No. 9568 helped 35 students earn their Hunters' Safety Certificates on Sept. 21 and 22.

The VFW hosted the students for the two-day exercise and provided them with coffee, juice and donuts each morning and then a luncheon.

The Romulus police volunteers included Lt. Daryl Poe, Officer Tom Ellis and Sgt. John Leacher.

The food was provided by Cheryl Blanton, Betty Harden and Cheryl Philpot of the VFW Auxiliary. Attorney Brian A. Oakley also lent support both days.

This was one of the largest hunters' classes in the past 10 years, Poe said.

"These classes are a wonderful and necessary program and we are greatly indebted to the VFW Post No. 9598 for their generosity in helping make it such a success this year," Poe said.

Firemen's Ball slated Oct. 19

Romulus Fire Station's 1 and 3 will be the hosts of this year's Firemen's Ball that will be held at 7 p.m. Oct. 19 at the Romulus Progressive Club Hall on Huron River Drive.

Capt. Steve Ryznar of Station 1, who is serving as chairman of the annual outing, said tickets for the ball are $20 each. The ticket price includes dinner, beer and musical entertainment.

Further information can be obtained by calling Ryznar at 941-3797.

time offer new career opportunities for Detroit youth.

Meanwhile Deputy Detroit School Superintendent Arthur Carter stands by his claim that Romulus Schools' actions are "school piracy."

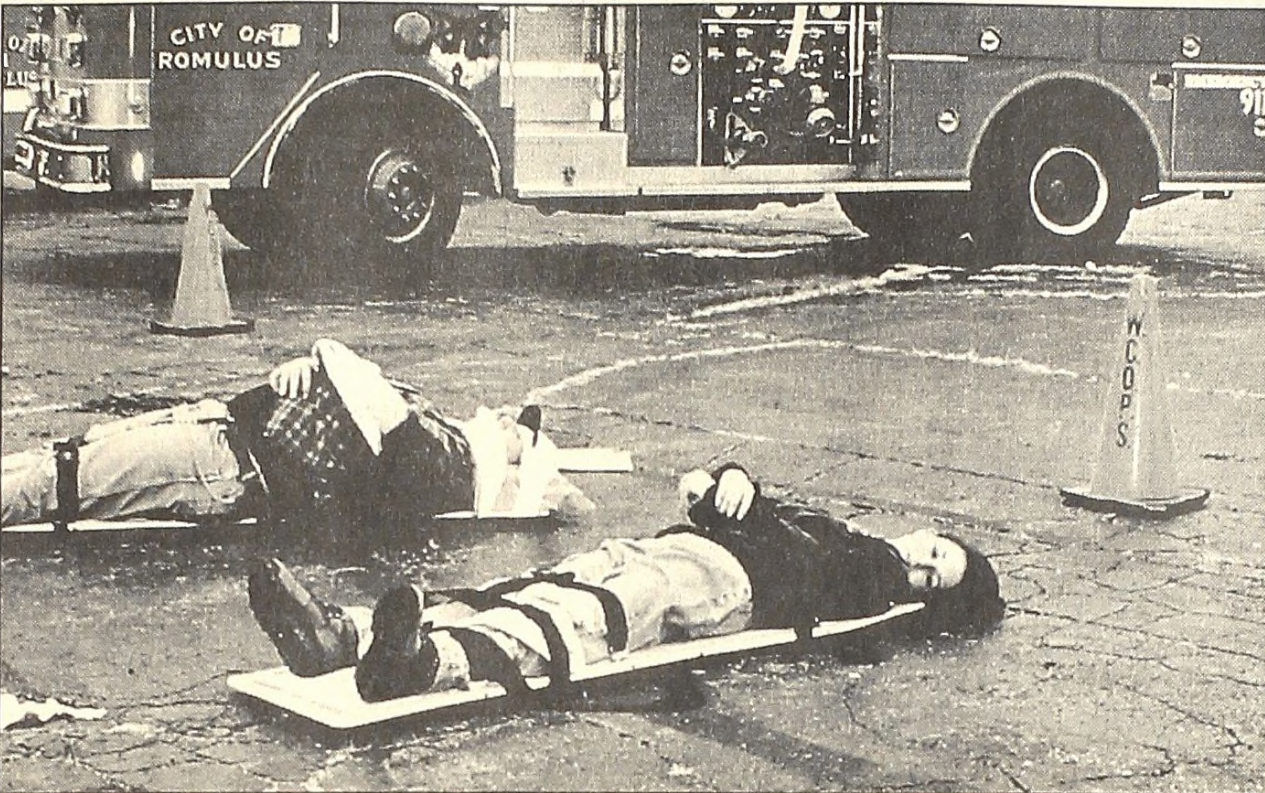

Efforts by Bedell and Bakema are sure to cause Gov. John Engler and his educational consultants to restudy the school of choice situation throughout Michigan.

The irony of the whole school of choice issue is that Bedell came out vocally against the concept earlier, but once it became law found a way to use it to aid the Romulus District.

Dr. Samuel LaMonica, head of the Romulus Human Services Unit, had good news for administrators and parents when he announced that the fourth Friday count for Romulus schools was 3,963, which is 141 students higher than the count last February. In addition another 28 students are enrolled in the Romulus Middle School's alternative program and 167 are listed in the high school alternative program.

Mock plane crash conducted

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

A team of Romulus emergency service experts and volunteers joined together in a mock plane-van disaster on Thursday to test their on-the-job crisis skills.

The program put together by Romulus Emergency Management coordinator Margaret LeDuc took place in the parking lot of the Romulus Progressive Club Hall shortly after 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

The staging area for the response team was the nearby St. Aloysius Church parking lot.

Parts of an airplane were scattered in one area of the Progressive Club parking lot symbolizing a plane crash. Sprawled on the ground in the midst of the plane debris were several youth, who were coated with fake blood.

One of the assisting groups in the mock disaster was the young Romulus Police Explorers unit coordinated by Romulus Youth Officer Jeff Lazarski.

Among the teenage Explorers taking part were Ashantia Pickens, Rachael Mefferd, Dan Czajkowski, Jon

Parts of an airplane were scattered in one area....

Manthei and Jason Orme.

Other young adults from an EMT class at Wyandotte Roosevelt High School taught by Fire Lt. John Thiede helped out also as supposed victims.

The accident scene was created to depict what would happen if a large passenger plane hit buildings and a van filled with local youth and how local emergency teams would respond.

According to the script, the plane was to have hit a private house, Crova's GMC Trucks Inc. business on Goddard road and the Romulus Wesleyan Church at Five Points before striking the van carrying the youths, LeDuc said.

Taking part in the adventure in addition to the youth were Romulus Police and Fire officials as well as Community Emergency Medical Services technicians.

When the first call came in local firefighters were alerted to the fact that the van doors were locked with a number of injured youth inside and that the "jaws of life" were needed to extract them from the vehicle.

Another team of CEMS workers were called to the nearby plane crash site to check out the conditions of the injured plane passengers and to aid those who were still alive.

Heavy training in how to place victims on backboards and wheeled stretchers was quite evident that morning.

Also in attendance were Police Chief Chuck Kirby, Fire Chief David Allison and Department of Public Works Deputy Director Hubert Staten.

LeDuc said to be effective the training session had to be kept secret from the Romulus Fire Department until Thursday morning. More than a dozen volunteer firefighters responded to the "crash" and aided the CEMS crew.

"We have to conduct such an exercise once every three years," LeDuc said, "and we feel that everything went real well."

A critique of the event has now to be filed with the state, she said.

Crash victim has 4 leg surgeries

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

A Westland mother of three, whose legs were crushed in a recent Romulus traffic accident, still has a hard time believing that just a few seconds could so fatefully change her life.

The victim of the crash, Mary Gaines, has undergone four surgeries to date at St. Joseph's Hospital in Ann Arbor--ironically also the place of her employment.

Gaines was making a phone call outside a Romulus service station on Friday the 13th, when a car zoomed out-of-control and smashed her into the side of the gas station wall.

According to police reports, the driver (a 33-year-old Romulus man) was chasing his girl friend in his car, when he lost control and slammed into Gaines.

"I first thought it was an accident," Gaines said from her hospital room, "but after talking to his girl friend I found out he was chasing her."

Gaines was first taken to Annapolis Hospital in Wayne for an immediate check-up and then was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by ambulance.

Now that her initial surgery has been completed, "I have to learn how to operate a wheelchair comfortably," Gaines said.

Once she gets home, Gaines said she expects to get some help from her older sister and her three children, ages ranging from 11 to 15.

In the meantime, Romulus police have sworn out warrants for the driver's arrest on a charge of failure to stop at a personal injury accident and for domestic violence against his girl friend.

Detective Lt. David Early said the traffic charge carries a maximum five-year-term and the domestic violence calls for 93 days in jail.

Last week the defendant's lawyer made three promises to bring in the defendant, but did not appear. Thus the warrant was sworn out for his arrest, Early said.

2 masked bandits rob party store

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Two masked bandits armed with long guns robbed the cash drawers of the Super J Party Store on Ecorse Road last Friday night, after making the employees and customers sprawl on the floor.

Detective Lt. David Early reported that the bandits entered the store shortly after 11 p.m. carrying a red duffel bag. The pair reportedly were wearing dark clothes and were described as black males, one about 5 feet 10 inches tall and the other 5 feet 7 inches tall.

A K-9 unit was called to the scene, but lost the bandits' scent on Merriman road where the pair reportedly climbed into a parked vehicle and fled the area.

A red 18 speed mountain bike was reported stolen from the backyard of a Wahrman road home on Sept. 24.

A Wayne road complainant complained on Sept. 24 that several persons were making unauthorized charges (including phone calls) on his American Express card.

A sneak thief entered a Wahrman road home on Sept. 24 and stole jewelry from a jewelry box and left a used condom on the kitchen counter.

A rear window of a vehicle was smashed on Sept. 24 parked at a Middlebelt road address and a camcorder was stolen.

Various personal items including cameras, a television set and a VCR were reported missing from an Anthony street home, following a party a teenage girl conducted while her parents were out of town.

A $10,000 air compressor was reported stolen on Sept. 25 from a fenced in yard on property housing the IHC Group business on Beverly road.

A 16-year-old complainant stated he was thrown on the ground and assaulted by two men at Beverly and Fourth on Sept. 25.

Golf clubs were stolen from a 1996 Chevrolet station wagon parked at the Super 8 on Middlebelt road on Sept. 26. Passenger lock was forced and the steering column was damaged.

A mail box was stolen from a Burningtrees home on Sept. 26.

Jewelry and $600 in cash was stolen from apartment on Merriman road on Sept. 26. Apartment door was forced and items were taken from a table just inside the door, police said.

Gang graffiti was scrawled on a parked car with a magic marker outside a Van Born home on Sept. 26. Graffiti also was written on a nearby building.

A subject was seen loitering in the lobby area of the Metro Inn on Merriman road on Sept. 27 prior to some thefts.

The subject was described as a white male with long greasy-looking brown hair, standing about six feet tall and weighing 175 pounds.

Stolen was a two-way portable Motorola radio and cell phone.

Police said an ex-boy friend came to a woman's house on Fourth street on Sept. 28 and fired two shots from a handgun when he was refused entrance into the home.

The defendant, Bobby James Crawford, was arrested later in Brownstown and turned over to Romulus police. He was arraigned on a carrying a concealed weapon charge and arraigned before 34th District Court Judge Henry Zaborowski on Sept. 29. Bail was set at $20,000 cash.

2 new policemen sworn; 1 promoted

Two new police officers were sworn in and one veteran officer was promoted to sergeant at a special ceremony conducted in the City Council Chambers of City Hall last Wednesday afternoon.

The new officers are Michael Ivezaj, 30, a former Inkster policeman; and Hussein Farhat, 21, a former Wayne County Sheriff's Department officer.

Promoted to sergeant was former DARE/GREAT Officer John Leacher.

Ivezaj, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., moved to Michigan when he turned 11 years old. He graduated from Farmington High School and currently is working on a degree at Oakland Community College.

Library provides something for all

By DIANE HAZE and SHELLEY DeLANO

As you drive around Michigan, have you ever wondered how places got their names? Many are named for their founder, or first settler, or postmaster, but many have interesting stories behind their names.

For example: Au Gres (Arenac Co.) takes its name from the "gritty stone" in the region and Butternut (Montcalm Co.) is named for the butternut cheese factory in the area. Center Line (Macomb Co.) was named by the French, because it was the middle of three Indian trails from the fort at Detroit to the trading posts to the north.

Cobmoosa (Oceana Co.) was named for an Indian chief who, with his people, was settled in the area. Mecosta (Mecosta Co.) was also named for an Indian chief.

These and many other interesting facts are found in Michigan Place Names by Walter Romig. Ref. 917.74 in the Michigan collection.

Did you know the Mackinac Bridge is the world's longest suspension bridge, or that the Ambassador Bridge was the first bridge to connect two countries?

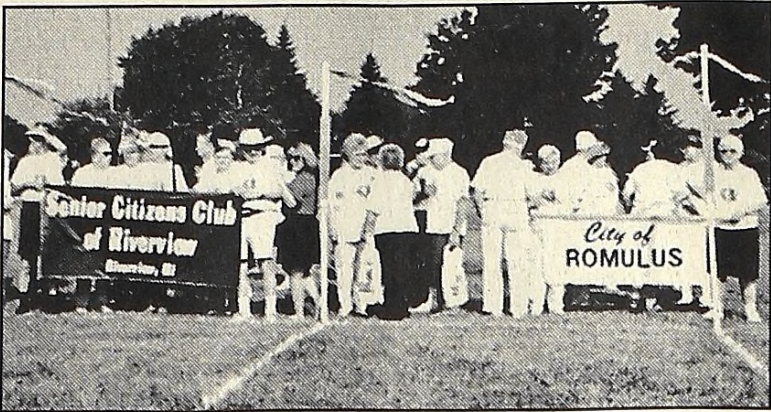

In 1992 some of the oldest preserved Mastodon tracks were found in a pasture near Saline. It takes one pound of spearmint oil to flavor 135,000 sticks of gum and on average Michigan farmers grow about 36 pounds per acre.

In Kaleva there is a house built of 60,000 soft drink bottles. The Awesome Almanac Michigan by Annette Newcomb (977.74) is the source of these facts and lots more interesting information about our State.

Both of these books and many others are found in the Michigan Collection. Do take time to look through that section when you visit the library.

The library is the place to go for help with home work assignments that are arriving home daily with your children. Here's what we have available.

World Food Day helps feed hungry

On Thursday, Oct. 10, participating restaurants throughout Michigan will donate seven percent of their receipts to the Food Bank Council of Michigan.

The Michigan Committee for World Food Day sponsors this one-day event to help feed the hungry in our state. Diners can become part of the "7 percent Solution" by patronizing one of more than 40 participating restaurants.

For the 11th consecutive year, WNIC-FM will join with the Michigan Committees for World Food Day and host a 12-hour radiothon to help publicize the event. In 1995, the event raised $42,000 with WNIC listeners pledging $25,000.

In Michigan, despite public and private assistance, 1.8 million people miss an average of four and a half meals every week. One quarter of these are children and the percentage of elderly in need of discounted meals is growing. The Food Bank Council of Michigan collects food and funds to help 2,000 local soup kitchens, shelters, church pantries and senior programs throughout the state.

New contest kicks off

A contest centering on human-like figures used to scare birds and other pests away from crops are the focus of a newly created Canton Scarecrow Festival.

The new Canton Scarecrow Festival will take place Oct. 19-26. To participate, individuals, families or businesses can display a scarecrow anywhere in Canton. Displays will be judged during between Oct. 19-26. Categories will be most traditional, most creative, most humorous, people's choice and most creative entry by a business. The awards will be presented at a story telling event Oct. 26.

A story telling contest will also take place in conjunction with the Canton Public Library. Story telling will begin 7 p.m. Oct. 26 in Heritage Park. Participants should bring their own seating.

The storytellers will be Debra Christian, Will McCully, Pat Troy and R.W. Lowe. The winners of the contest and other storytellers will also tell stories. The scarecrow contest winners will be announced during the program.

The story telling will begin with scary and humorous stories and progressively move to more frightening stories. Those remaining after the break will be warned that the stories may be too frightening for very young children, but parents should use their own discretion about whether they can stay.

Here's how to enter: The participant should pick up an entry form, available at the information desk in the Canton Public Library, and return it to the same desk before Oct. 18 to be eligible for judging. Rules will be attached to the entry form. A committee will judge the entries during the afternoon of Oct. 26 at the canton Library. There will be three levels of competition: fourth-through fifth-graders, sixth-through eighth-graders and ninth- 12th graders. First place winners of each level will be invited to tell their story that evening at the story telling in Heritage Park. The awards will be presented at the story telling.

Festival chairperson, Judge Ron Lowe of the 35th District Court said the purpose of the Scarecrow Festival is to help preserve Canton's heritage and ethnic diversity.

Lowe said there were times in Canton's history when scarecrows dotted the countryside. With Canton's rich farming history came the need to scare off pests, to prevent them from feeding on crops before harvest.

Many other cultures, including the Japanese, Germans, Native Americans and the French all used scarecrows. This is reflective of Canton's ethnic diversity, Lowe said.

"The history of the scarecrow is as diverse as the cultures that created him," Lowe said. "Isn't that symbolic of Canton's future, how it will be as diverse as the cultures represented here?"

Entry forms and further information is available at the information desk in Canton Township Hall.

It's Adopt A Dog Month.

(So hurry, you know how fast dog time goes.)

October is a great time to adopt an adult dog at the Michigan Humane Society. Adult dogs are usually housebroken and socialize easily to home-life. Kevin Dokes is an innocent man. He has been embarrassed before the entire world and stands unjustly accused. So say some of his friends who have called this newspaper on his behalf.

Mike's musings
Mike Wilcox

Dokes, a court officer for six years and music director at New Hope Missionary Baptist Church, will stand trial on charges of sexual assault and felony firearm charges. The supposed victim is a 32-year-old woman who claims she was raped by Dokes in the 22nd District court restroom.

The woman was summoned to the Inkster court for sentencing on illegal possession of a controlled substance and concealed weapons. Dokes offered to intervene on her behalf. After doing so, he allegedly told the woman, "You owe me." The woman claims he then led her to the darkened restroom and proceeded to rape her. She also claimed she feared for her life because he had a service revolver strapped to his right hip.

Strangely, the woman did not walk across the hall to the police department to report the alleged rape. She did not seek medical treatment. She waited seven days to report the incident. She claims she was afraid to go to the police. Ronald McDuffie, Dokes' attorney claims she concocted the story after learning she could sue the city, court and whomever else.

People we talked to said Dokes is incapable of this type of behavior. They said he is a kind soul who would never use force. They say he is deeply religious and has dedicated his life to helping other people. They are indignant towards the alleged victim, claiming she is only out for financial gain.

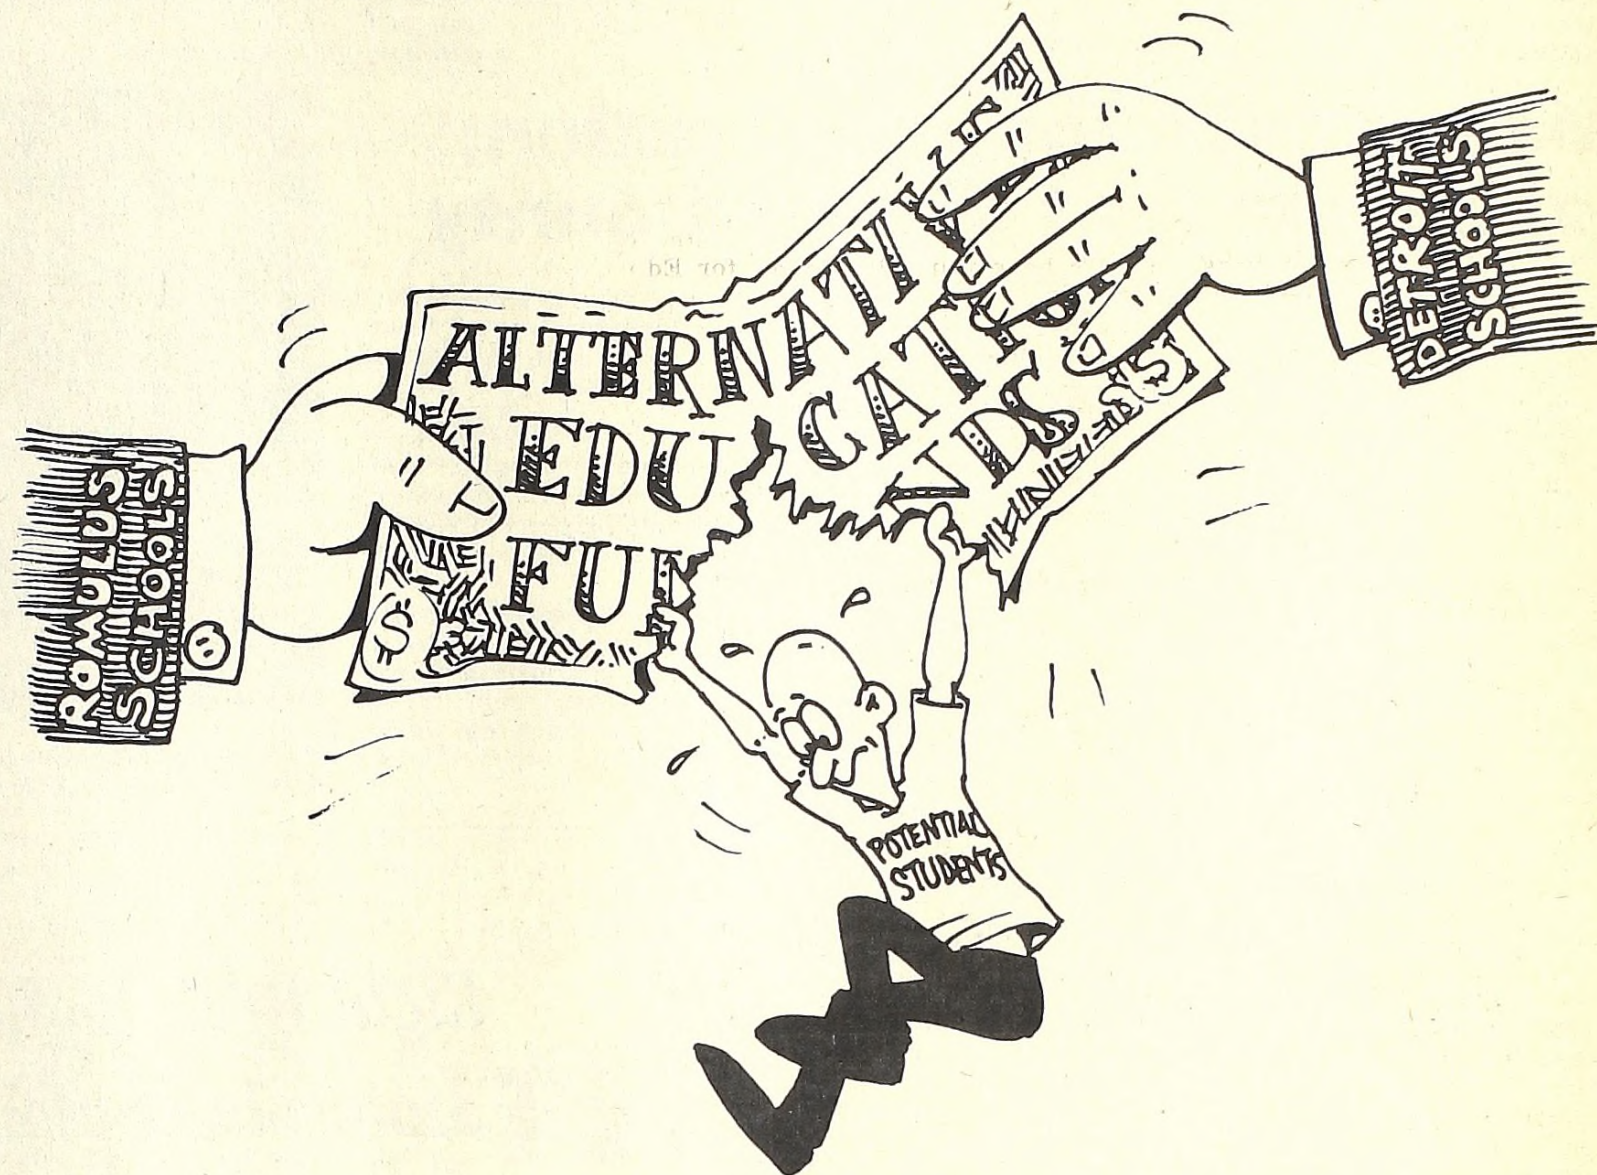

However, Judge Richard Hammer found the evidence compelling enough to send Dokes to circuit court. He refused to lower the bond, leaving it at the original $100,000 despite pleas from McDuffie.

Will the real Kevin Dokes please stand up? I'm sure we'll find out just how innocent he is when the case goes to trial.

Michele Haushalter and Jeff Blackburn are two very lucky people. Their names have been selected as the first two of 10 finalists to be chosen for the Michigan Community Newspapers' $10,000 giveaway. Haushalter of Wayne entered at Jack Demmer Ford, while Blackburn placed his entry at the new Suburban Pontiac-Buick dealership in Ypsilanti.

You too could become one of the remaining eight finalists. All you have to do is fill out the entry blanks on the back page of this week's sports section and take them to one, two or all of the participating car dealerships. From those entry forms, we choose a finalist each week. The 10 finalists will then be invited to a grand gala drawing in which one name will be selected to receive the car of his or her choice.

It's that simple. Enter now. Enter the next eight weeks. You could be the next Bob and Anna Seluk, winners of last year's Car Giveaway.

Brother quoted

To the editor:

During part of the 1992 Tuesday night Republican Convention, my brother, at his home in Des Arc, Arkansas, said, "That Clinton never had told the truth before, why should they believe him now?"

You're right, Bob Dole is no Slick Willy, he keeps his word. Bob Dole has spent his whole life being truthful. Be sure "that the hypocrite reign not, lest the people be ensnared" (Job 34:30).

Ticket haunts candidate

To the editor:

I am 86 years old and have voted in every presidential election since 1932. I have a handicapped parking permit which I value very highly. I strongly object to anyone who thinks that, just because they have prestige, money or a well known name, they have the right to abuse my privilege.

I'm talking about U.S. Senate candidate Ronna Romney. Maybe others have forgotten, but I remember the following incident.

During the exceptionally harsh winter of 1990-91, when snow piled up in parking lots and it was hard for anyone to get around (let alone us handicappers), Ronna Romney went shopping in one of our local malls to buy a new pair of shoes. Apparently, she couldn't find a vacant parking spot conveniently close to the stores, so she simply parked her car in a handicapped spot. She got a ticket.

When the story hit the local papers, she didn't even have class enough to apologize in person—she let former husband Scott serve as her "spokesman." According to Scott Romney, Ronna had taken their 13 year old daughter shopping. She thought it would be OK to park illegally because "she wasn't going to be gone very long." I guess it was long enough to get a ticket! What kind of an example did she set for her daughter?

The bottom line is, if Ronna Romney cannot be trusted to obey the parking laws and respect the rights of the disabled, how in the world can she be trusted to represent you and me should she happen to be elected to the U.S. Senate?

Fellow handicappers beware—Ronna Romney is no friend of ours!

Student lends support

To the editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to stress my support for Congressional candidate Joe Fitzsimmons.

Mr. Fitzsimmons is running for Congressional seat in Michigan's 13th district.

Unlike his challenger, Lynn Rivers, Fitzsimmons emphasizes passing the balanced budget amendment and cutting income taxes to help revitalize our economy. Fitzsimmons believes in assisting students by protecting educational funding, making student loans more affordable and creating more opportunities for higher education.

As a student and resident in Ann Arbor for the past four years, I have had a chance to witness the ineffective representation of Lynn Rivers. I am frustrated by her incompetence on protecting education funding as well as her votes against tax cuts for families. I praise Mr. Fitzsimmons for recognizing the needs of our community and offering a common sense agenda.

I truly believe that Mr. Fitzsimmons, a successful businessman and active community leader, can provide his community with productive representation and real leadership in Congress.

Decision criticized

To the editor:

When a person is elected to office in government, that person bears a responsibility to the general public to protect the needs and relieve the concerns of the community. Because of the power accompanying a government office, few politicians have the character and courage to keep their promises and to place the needs of the community above political gain. Joe Fitzsimmons has character. Lynn Rivers has a personal, political agenda.

Joe Fitzsimmons believes that we can cut taxes and balance the budget. This belief is well founded on years and years of economic research. It is common sense in the business community that lower taxes equals greater spending, and more economic growth. Lynn Rivers, by her position against decreasing the tax burden of the American family, is against economic growth. She is afraid the government won't be able to afford a tax cut. Her faulty argument rests on the misguided assumption that the money is the government's to begin with. Lynn Rivers has forgotten that tax money belongs to hard working families and businesses of the country.

Nothing saddened Joe and his supporters more than Lynn Rivers' support for late-term abortions. There is no question that our country is greatly divided over the issue of abortion. However, the vote on late-term abortions was not a question of the woman's right to choose; but rather a question of right and wrong. Lynn Rivers is wrong to support the removal and disposal of viable, living human beings in a waste like manner. She is wrong to support a process that several leading members of the medical community claim is closer to "homicide" than to "surgery." Lynn Rivers voted her personal opinion and disappointed her entire community.

Whether she supports removing living human beings from their mother's wombs, or money from the pockets of hard working families, Lynn Rivers is working against the community. Joe Fitzsimmons, on the other hand, wants to serve the community, as he has done since he was a child. He supports banning late-term abortions, and wants parents of working families to keep their money. As a leader in the business and educational sectors of our community, Joe Fitzsimmons has proven his ability to stand up for what is right. And more importantly, that he cares about the direction of our country.

Foster supported

To the editor:

I would like to share my frustration with regard's to the late Saturday night flyers that have been appearing on my mailbox, or on the ground in the street, or on yards creating unsightliness.

The so called action team is the responsible author of these offensive flyers. I along with others, find the flyers and their contents immature, misleading, mean spirited, and especially offensive to all Van Buren Township residents, especially those of us who work for, or who have spouses that work for Ford.

It is incredulous of them to blindly state that a couple of the Foster Team Trustee candidates, because they work at Ford, would not oppose EQ and PCB's.

My husband works for Ford! Several of my neighbor's work for Ford! Several of my childrens classmates parents work for Ford! There are thousands of Ford employees who reside in Van Buren Township! It is insulting to all of us, to think that we are thought of as puppets! I know for a fact, that Foster Team Trustee Candidate, Phillip Hart has publicly opposed EQ and he is a member of WECARE.

This kind of garbage proves that the authors are trying to divert the fact, that the lack the ability, integrity, education, experience, and the background to oversee the Township on behalf of its constituents.

The Foster Team Trustee candidates, have given of themselves, and worked very hard to make this community a better place. They are good solid citizens with Ability, integrity, honesty, experience, education and they have been involved by serving on commissions and committees. They are raising their families here and they hold nothing but the highest esteem for Van Buren Township. Van Buren Township and its surrounding communities need "The Foster Team"

Do not let them insult your integrity or the integrity of the foster Trustee candidates, as they are trying to do. Everyone I know, is opposed to EQ's PCB applications, everyone!

I will be voting for the Foster Team! We need them!

Inkster slighted

To the editor:

I am a registered voter and I feel that if President Clinton can go and see Westland's John Glenn High School and Wayne's Wayne Memorial High School, he should attend Inkster High School. He could get our votes too. Every vote counts. I believe that was very rude and disrespectful to us Inkster voters. Wayne & Westland are not better than Inkster. Was he scared of Inkster? I believe everywhere is the same with gangs, drugs, guns and etc. That really ticked me off when I heard he was visiting them and not us her in Inkster.

Also I believe that is was very generous, courageous for the Rev. Jesse Jackson to follow through with his visit at Inkster High, (give him some love). To Bill Clinton, the president, Inkster is in the United States too, isn't it???

The Senior Country Jambo-ree held at the new Center on Aug. 23 was a great success. Your donation helped make it possible for almost 300 Seniors to enjoy an evening at September Days Senior Center. The evening included a catered meal, music by "Magic Moments", and drawings for merchandise and gift certificates. Be assured this would not have been possible without your help.

Saturday, Oct. 12, is the dedication of the new Van Buren Township Community Building. We hope you will attend and please stop in to see us. We would like to thank you personally for your generosity and continued support of our Seniors.

Candidate speaks for him

To the editor:

Lynn Rivers speaks for me. As one who has consistently spoken and acted out in favor of children and seniors, education and labor, choice and universal health care, the environment, women and minorities issues...Lynn Rivers speaks to me.

In this time where the divergent views of democrats and republicans can often blur through cynical political negativism, Lynn represents an honest and constant voice for my values. Lynn has demonstrated to me year after year that her perspectives on issues meaningful to me and our society are solid, well thought through, and most of all consistent. Lynn Rivers is a known quantity. If you like what she says, if you appreciate how she has voted, if your instincts tell you this is a person with strong and committed values that support our families and our diversity, our workers and our environment, our health and our future,, then your choice should be clear; mine is. There are no curve balls with Lynn Rivers. She is strong, devoted, effective, and consistent.

And yet, she is up against a man with a lot of money and a lot of negativity. I have read some ugly attack statements about Lynn from this man's supporters and found their comments to be lacking in substance, grace, and self-confidence. Lynn's campaign, Lynn's experience, Lynn's history, Lynn's style so conspicuously contrasts with her opponent's approach. Lynn has proven herself to me in Congress over the past two years and in our communities for years (for example voted "Outstanding New Member" of the 104th Congress by Committee for Education Funding) and looms respectively above her opponent's negativity.

I support Lynn Rivers and her views and her voting record... as she and they so directly support me. I support her positive campaign as well, recognizing how easy it is to fall into negativity when one's opponent begins drops the quality of debate. Lynn has character and experience; that's enough for me.

Gender gap is real

To the editor:

Much has been made of the gender gap in voting. Women have been voting the Democrat ticket in much greater numbers than men. Doesn't this voting pattern then suggest another gap, fewer men voting Democrat than women.

The liberal press spends almost no time reporting and analyzing the race gap. Jesse Jackson has tear-stained many a dias lamenting the 30 to 35 percent white vote for a black candidate running in a predominantly white district. But when Reagan won the presidency the first time, he did so with 8 percent of the black vote!

Commission candidate visits Inkster

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

When Republican Carol Juarez visited the Inkster Local Development County (LDC) meeting last week, she issued a call for change.

"I'm not going to say anything negative about my opponent, but I think it's time for fresh ideas and fresh leadership in the Wayne County Commission," Juarez told the members.

She distributed literature with the slogan, "It's OK to follow the same path...until you get stuck in a rut."

Juarez is seeking the 12th District post, covering Westland, Inkster and Garden City, which has been filled by Democratic incumbent Kay Bear for 18 years.

The commission candidate, who has a master's degree from Central Michigan University, is a retired Wayne County employee and an independent non-profit consultant.

"It is interesting that the two mayors who complained to the Conference of Western Wayne (CWW) -- Westland Mayor Bob Thomas and Inkster Mayor Edward Bevins Jr. -- about not being well represented in Wayne County are served by the same commissioner, Kay Beard," said Juarez.

"We pay 80 percent of the taxes in Wayne County, and the majority of its goes to Detroit. There are other communities that need help other than Detroit," she said. "The county has a shocking budget of $1.6 billion annually, and I wonder where that money is going. I'd like to find out, and that will be one of my goals."

Juarez noted that she heard that teens throughout the U.S. spend $2 billion annually on "junk food," and she wondered whether Wayne County's budget of $1.6 billion has been spent as carelessly as the teens spent their junk food funds.

"I want to go over the Wayne County budget and find out where the money is going," Juarez said.

"We need more local control. More authority could be given to the regional agencies, such as the CWW and the Downriver Community Conference (DCC)," the Republican candidate said. "Why don't we increase the number of votes it takes the County Commission to put a tax hike on the ballot to two-thirds?"

With seven commissioners from Detroit and eight from out-county is has been relatively easy to pass proposed increases by a simple majority.

Juarez does not oppose an effort to have out-county communities split from Wayne County "if that is what the people want." However, she is concerned that establishing a new county could result in more taxes for the local taxpayers when a new unit of government is put into place.

She expressed interest in a proposal to bring more county services to the out-county areas.

"I'm waging a grass-roots campaign. I'm not just dropping off literature. I'm knocking on doors and introducing myself to people," Juarez said, noting that she has covered almost all of one precinct so far in her door-to-door campaigning.

She said in her conversations with people in the district, she has noted (by her own figures) that 65 percent do not want a stadium tax and 80 percent said they did not feel they have been adequately informed about county government.

"I thought it was amazing that 20 percent of those I talked to said they would be willing to become involved. I'd like to have those people serve in committees to provide feedback and help me to make decisions on issues," said Juarez. "I won't be making decisions alone. I'll be looking for input from my constituents."

Campaigns heat up for candidates

With the general election just one month away, the campaigns are heating up.

Charges and countercharges are being levied by both parties and endorsements are being sought and won from numerous groups and organizations.

Here's a brief run-down on what's happening on the campaign scene:

- State Rep. Jim Ryan (R-Redford) earned a "gotcha" from Democrats who noted that, although he claimed he voted for 21 tax cuts, all but nine were enacted before he took office.

- Rep. Dick Chrysler went Hollywood with actor Charlton Heston as his special guest at the Tri-County Sportsman Club in Saline on Oct. 1.

- Endorsements for Lynn Rivers, D-13, were given by the National Association of Police Organizations and the Wayne County Sheriff/Airport Police Local 502.

- While Joe Fitzsimmons, candidate for the 13th District seat, took his campaign on the road (Reaching Out Across the District) to work in a Westland pizzeria and a Wayne restaurant, his opponent criticized him for using "gimmicks" in his campaign.

- Democrats nominated Marilyn Kelly, an appellate judge since 1989, for the Michigan Supreme Court.

- The Law Enforcement Alliance of America endorsed Joe Fitzsimmons for Congress in the 13th District.

- Republican candidate John Pappageorge, seeking the 12th District seat in Congress, attacked Sander Levin and Bill Clinton for waging a campaign of "bait and switch." He called it the "Dis-Orient Express."

- Bob Dole visited National Tech Team Inc. in Dearborn, speaking to some 1,000 Dole/Kemp supporter. Also with Dole were Gov. John Engler and former Secretary of Education Lamar Alexander.

- U.S. Chamber endorses Republican Susy Heintz in Michigan's 10th Congressional District.

Belle Isle features flowers, zoo, aquarium plus museum

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

Its earliest visitors called it White Swan and French settlers renamed it Isle aux Cocons or Hog Island, but we know the beautiful island park today as Belle Isle.

While a visit to the island is the highlight of many out-of-state visitors' tours of Metro Detroit, many residents bypass the many charms of Belle Isle, located "right in their own backyard."

The 985-acre island was purchased by Detroit in 1879 for $200,000, against the opposition of those who thought the price was too high. It was decided to keep the name Belle Isle (Beautiful Island) by which the property was popularly known.

Members of the Huron Valley Conservation Association (HVCA) decided to introduce the members of their junior group to the attractions of Belle Isle and visited the many sites with long-time HVCA member Wayne Lybeck of Van Buren Township coordinating the trip.

"It was an enjoyable as well as educational experience for the youth," said Lybeck. "Many of us toured the Dossin Great Lakes Museum, the Nature Center and the Anna Scripps Whitcomb Conservatory, as well as the zoo."

HVCA President Ginger Bruder said the trip was one of several educational experiences offered to the youngsters in the newly formed youth group.

"We were awed by the flowers in the conservatory," said Marie Domcik. "It was a treat for the youngsters to see bananas growing in Michigan."

Among the attractions on the island are:

- The aquarium, America's oldest, which features electric eels and many varieties of fish and water creatures. Open daily 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

- Dossin Great Lakes Museum features largest collection of scale-model Great Lakes ships, maritime memorabilia and special hands-on exhibits. Open Wednesday to Sunday from 10 to 4 p.m.

- Nature Center has information on living displays of the island's flora and fauna and a nature trail that is handicapped accessible. Family programs and Sunday lecture series. Wednesday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

- Zoo, built on 13 acres with an elevated walkway for viewing the more than 160 animals in natural settings. Open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily from May 1 to Oct. 31.

- Anna Scripps Whitcomb Conservatory is patterned after Thomas Jefferson's Monticello. It features permanent displays of cacti, ferns, palms and one of the largest collections of orchids in the country. Open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily from Memorial Day to late September.

In addition there is a giant floral clock, Playscape playground, giant slide, 200-acre woodlands, fishing piers, bicycle and nature trails, canoe canals and rentals, a cinder running track, half-mile swimming beach, picnic shelters, snack bar and a nine-hole golf course.

During the winter there is ice skating and sledding plus the aquarium, conservatory and Dossin Museum are open.

The undefeated: Glenn, Wayne punish their fourth foes

Rockets burst Rocks

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Plymouth-Salem's Tom Moshimer said before the game that he felt that Westland John Glenn was "the class of the conference this year."

And the Salem coach saw nothing Friday night to change his mind.

"They (Glenn) just don't have any weaknesses to exploit," said Moshimer after the Rockets erupted to a 31-14 victory in the rain over the hosts. "I said before this game, and I will repeat it, that Glenn is the team to beat in this conference this year."

Glenn rolled to a 31-7 half-time lead, then went on to win their fourth of the season, handing Salem its first setback in four starts.

Despite the elements - it rained. Rained and rained during the game, Glenn quarterback Justin Berent had an exceptional night as he tossed for one TD, scored another and hit on eight of 13 passes for 92 yards.

Four minutes into the first quarter, the Westlanders struck and were on the scoreboard when Berent and split end Louis Hartwig teamed up on a strike right over the middle of the line that Hartwig completed for a 35-yard pass-run TD play.

Then, Steve Palling went to work. He kicked his first of four successful PATs.

Glenn was back on the scoreboard three minutes later when a Salem turnover gave the Rockets possession of the ball at midfield. This time

Zebras trample Woodhaven

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

With senior quarterback Lorenzo Guess at the throttle, Wayne Memorial's title express picked up momentum Friday night as coach Chuck Howton's club drubbed Woodhaven 43-6 for its fourth straight victory.

With the victory, Wayne is now atop of the Mega Conference Red Division standings, and now awaits a showdown with Wyandotte, a team that had strung together three victories before losing to Dearborn Fordson.

Wyandotte's setback leaves Wayne in sole possession of first place, but a Bruin victory Friday on the Roosevelt High School field would scramble the title picture as Monroe, Fordson, Wyandotte and Wayne may wind up with one loss after five weeks.

But Wayne is in control now and was in control Friday as the Zebras wasted little time against Woodhaven.

Guess unloaded three touchdown passes, two to his twin, Lavelle, and a third to end Richard Rashad to build up a 30-0 halftime lead. The outcome of the game was never in doubt after the initial half.

As Wayne's offense enjoyed their best evening of the young season, its defense wreaked devastation upon a Woodhaven which failed to generate positive yardage the entire first half.

Woodhaven did not complete a pass and finished with a total of 83 yards on the ground for the game and most of that coming against the Ze-

Super-hungry for a victory, Robichaud feasts on Inkster

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Victory-starved Robichaud, which had tumbled its way out of the "W" column on its first three starts, had the right recipe Friday and feasted upon natural rival Inkster before the home crowd.

Jason Malloy generated most of the heat and a record-tying performance against the visiting Vikings who couldn't stop the junior Robichaud fullback.

Malloy accounted for six TDs, tying a single-game scoring record in the Bulldogs' 58-8 victory over Inkster.

Malloy's TD bursts tied a 1990 Robichaud record established by Tyrone Wheatley, a prep All-American who led the Bulldogs to the Class B state title in that year. Wheatley went on to earn All-America honors as a tailback with the University of Michigan before signing with the New York Giants in the National Football League.

"Jason just had an outstanding game," said Yauck afterward. "We needed a victory, and we got it. Now, hopefully, we can now build upon it."

Robichaud will travel next to Warren Fitzgerald for Game No. 5. Kick off is 7:30 p.m. Malloy single-handedly accounted for 40 of the Bulldogs' 58 points which also tied a Wheatley record. He scored five TDs on runs of 12, 7, 20, 10 and 5-yards, and he also scooped up an Inkster fumble and returned it for a touchdown.

Robichaud also scored when defensive tackle Stanley Jackson blocked a punt and picked up the inflated spheroid and ran it back 30 yards into the Vikings' end zone.

Inkster averted the shutout late with a fourth quarter score thanks to QB Brinston Clayborn's pass to Ken Overman who broke three tackles to get to the Robichaud goal line. The play covered 52 yards.

The Vikings also used a Clayborn-to-Overman pass to convert the two-point.

Inkster coach Glenn Free said he was "utterly disappointed in his team performance."

"I knew they (Robichaud) had an outstanding team, despite their record," Free said. "But I felt we could have and should have played a better game against them."

Free attributed the poor showing against Robichaud to "a lack of leadership, especially by our seniors. We desperately need to get our game together."

The Vikings may do just that on Friday when they take on old Suburban Athletic Conference foe, Ecorse, at the downriver city's field.

Game time for the Inkster-Ecorse game is 4 p.m.

Rocks on a roll

State-ranked Plymouth-Salem made short work of visiting Farmington Hills Harrison as Coach Fred Thomann's Rocks crushed their Western Lakes Conference opponents 69-34 en route to their sixth victory in seven starts. Rocks keep rolling

By LORI GILLESPIE
MCN Staff Writer

Plymouth-Salem's girls basketball team showed why they are ranked as one of the top 10 teams in the state, as they pounded Farmington Hills Harrison 69-34.

Sophomore Angela Sillmon started things off for the Rocks with four points. She lead Salem through the first quarter with nine points. Also scoring for the Rocks was Laurel Weiman (3), Amanda Abraham (2), and Andrea Pruett (3). This brought the score to 18-8, with Harrison scoring six points on foul shots.

Salem dominated the entire game. In the second quarter, the Rocks doubled their score, as Heather Guenn shot for six points. Harrison again scored

Harrison's field goal lifts Belleville over Romulus

.3 seconds left, kicker boots 40-yarder to win a 17-14 thriller

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

It all came down to one last play - a field goal.

With three seconds left in the Belleville - Romulus encounter of a different kind, it was up to Belleville soccer-style kicker Eric Harrison to put the ball through the uprights.

And from 40-yards - or was it 39? - yards out. Who could be sure just how far in that rain?

Harrison had failed to connect on the rain-soaked turf earlier from 20-yards, but this one last chance could decide the game.

So, with the score tied at 14-all, Harrison converged upon the ball and the fans stood up and held their collective breaths as his toe met the ball and sent it toward the uprights, sailing through the goal posts for the decisive three points caused a resounding roar from the fans on both sides of the field which probably could be heard all the way to Main Street in Belleville.

Belleville had won its second straight Mega Conference, Red Division, decision, 17-14.

The clinching field goal was a relief for coach Bob LaPointe, whose teams have never lost to Romulus, and Romulus coach Mark Woodson could only turn his face away in disbelief. He had just missed winning what probably was his biggest victory as a head coach.

"It was an excellent game for the fans," Woodson would later say. "Unfortunately, someone had to be on the losing end. And that someone was us."

Woodson said that his team "deserved a lot of credit because it refused to quit after being down by two TDs in the first half."

LaPointe also commended Romulus's performance and singled out Russell (Fred Russell) as "an exceptionally talented and fast ball player."

"He broke a couple of long runs and no one could catch him."

What started out to be a typical Belleville rout of Romulus turned in a battle for survival for the defending Mega Conference champs as Woodson and his Eagles were hellbent on purging the past. Belleville has dominated this series for the past decade.

Belleville scored in the first quarter when Derrick Thomas polished off a 72-yard sustained drive, orchestrated by quarterback John Kroger, with a nine-yard, off-tackle TD run.

Harrison then kicked his first of two point-afterers.

In the second quarter, Kroger and younger brother, Mark, who is a sophomore, teamed up on a 64 yard pass and run touchdown play. Mark freed himself on a quick slant and after John delivered the ball into his brother's hands, Mark took off and didn't stop until he was in the Romulus end zone.

Looking at a 14-0 halftime deficit, Romulus made up the deficit thanks to Russell's swiftness and some key blocks, specifically by Owen Roper and William Hamby.

Russell got the Eagles on the scoreboard in the third quarter when Roper paved the way that opened up the path on the right side of the line where the senior tailback slipped through and raced 76 yards for the touchdown.

The Eagles jeopardized their chances of catching up when they failed to make the two-point conversion.

However, Russell, who had 210-yards on 11 carries, came back with a second TD in the third quarter. When Brian Tyus converted for the two-points on an around end run, folks, we had a tied ball game.

It was defense the rest of the rain-drenched evening until those final three seconds when Harrison's field goal sent the teams and fans home.

Woodson did use the super-

11 teams compete for Glenn CC title

Some of the premier men and women high school cross country teams will compete for the annual Westland John Glenn invitational title on Tuesday at the Central City Park located behind the Westland Municipal Complex on Ford Road.

The invitational will bring together the underclassmen - the meet is open to freshmen and sophomores - from the following schools: Livonia Churchill, Plymouth-Salem, Northville, Belleville, Ypsilanti, Wayne Memorial and Westland John Glenn. The same teams along with Birmingham Marian, will be represented in the women's division.

"It's an impressive field," said Glenn CC coach Jess Shough, "and I won't go out on the limb to pick a favorite. I think any one can win this one."

To tune up for their meet, Glenn will travel to Alpena over the weekend to take part in the northeast city's annual tournament. The host has won the past two team championships.

At Alpena, the Westlanders will face such teams as East Tawas, Sault Ste. Marie, Charlevoix, and Flint Powers.

"Alpena has always been a good and tough meet for us," said Shough. "It also gives us an opportunity to see what the teams up-north have."

In Western Lakes Conference competition last week, the Rockets fell to a well-balanced Livonia Stevenson team despite a record-shattering performance by their senior standout, Joe Wojtowicz.

Wojtowicz established a it was sophomore running back Reggie Spearmon who took it across the Rocks' goal line, from 21 yards out.

Glenn continued to build on its 14-0 lead as the Rocks sunk into rained-soaked turf.

Paling's added to the Rockets lead with a 23-yard field goal that turned it into a 17-0 game early (10:52) into the second period and, with 5:14 left to the intermission, Berent finished off a short drive with a leap over the Salem line from the one for another Glenn score.

For all purposes the two Western Lakes Conference rivals could have gone home and dried out for their next encounters, but they stayed on. The Rockets scored again that second quarter, with 3:01 left.

Fullback Sean Heard crashed into the Rocks' end zone with an up-the-middle 25-yard dash. Incidentally, Heard's TD was his first as a member of the Rockets' varsity squad. It was set up by Bryan Schwesing's fumble recovery of a mishandled Salem punt.

Salem came back in the last two minutes of the first half to score its first of two touchdowns. Quarterback Nate Gray and Mike Rodriguez combined on a 33-yard touchdown pass.

Then, on the second play of the second half, James Chapman scored for the Rocks.

Brian James kicked both point-after.

Salem will attempt to regroup on Saturday at Farmington.

"The Glenn game is behind us," said Moshimer afterward. "This team will come back. This is the kind of team we have."

In the meantime, the Rockets will attempt to stretch their winning streak to five Friday night before a homecoming crowd. Glenn will square off with North Farmington at 7:30 p.m.

overall performances against the Tigers.

Romulus will need another second half like they played against Belleville for Friday night when they take on senior fullback Jovah Johnson and Monroe. Monroe bounced back from their only loss of the season at the hands of Wayne Memorial to beat Lincoln Park, 13-0, last week. The Trojans remain very much alive in the title race.

In the meantime, the Tigers could make it three straight (after losing their first two) Friday night when they host winless Woodhaven for Homecoming.

The most valuable

Belleville's Jason Harris comes up with a big save in Sun Snow's championship game victory over Pasadena, California during the recently-staged National Invitational. Harris, a 11-year-old goalie (at right), was selected the national tournament's Most Valuable Player for his stellar efforts. Coach Bob Parents said after the series that, "California plays a wide-open game. They get the puck out quick and, since there is no offsides, try to set up a one-on-one play with our goaltender to a player waiting in our zone. This allowed us to play with a 4 on 3 advantage offensively. I have enough confidence in our goalie, (Belleville's Jason Harris) to let us play with a man advantage in their zone." bras' second string.

Lorenzo and Lavelle teamed up for two TD passes that covered 12 and eight yards. He also fired a 10-yard strike to Rashad, and the senior quarterback also scored on a keeper that finished off a midfield drive.

Wayne fullback Terrance Hardison and tailback Dwayne

Jackson accounted for the two other touchdowns. Hardison scored from three yards out and Jackson crossed the goal line from the five. Lorenzo punished Woodhaven's secondary with his pinpoint aerial assault that slashed through the rains to get to their receivers. He made good on seven of 13 passes for 67 yards and three touchdowns.

Charlie Leverenz accounted for the point-after and also kicked a 23-yard field goal.

Jackson rushed for 104 yards on 12 attempts and also scored one TD.

Rashad had his best game as a receiver. He made five catches for 47 yards and one touchdown and Lavelle accounted for two catches for 20 yards and two touchdowns.

Howton lauded his "entire defense" and also noted the exceptional play by linebacker Shonnan Simmons, who had a couple of sacks of the QB. Ron Pennington, Mel Gray, William Laramie also turned in stellar performances on defense.

Glenn course record as he covered the 3.1 miles in an outstanding 16:59. Wojtowicz's performance eclipsed the mark set in the early 1990s by Jeff Tapper who ran a 17:03.

Despite a record-run, Wojtowicz was forced to settle for second best against Stevenson. Spartan Rob Block covered the distance in the winning time of 16:37.

Shough pointed out that the Stevenson meet was a very close one, determined by the narrow margin of a second.

"The fourth and fifth places were decided by one second," said Shough. "That's how close it was."

"But we ran Stevenson tough. They (Stevenson) had three good runners and we just didn't have enough to stop them this time around."

Glenn's Paul Galbraith and teammate Justin Keyes provided the Rockets with fifth (18:01) and sixth (18:30) places, respectively, while Josh Keyes wound up in eighth (18:37). T.J. Wolocko was ninth.

The loss left Glenn winless in their division (Lakes) after two starts. They have a 1-2 overall record in their conference.

most of their points from the foul line. At halftime, Salem lead 36-17.

The Rocks continued on their rampage in the second half, scoring six points before Harrison broke through the defense to score their first basket. The Hawks staged a comeback in the third quarter, bringing themselves within 22 points of Salem. Heading into the final eight minutes, the Rocks hung onto their lead, 52-30.

Harrison seemed to be frustrated in the fourth quarter, managing only four points, as well as fouling four times. Salem, on the other hand, continued playing as if their lead was in danger. Guenn once again lead her team with six points, shooting four from the foul line. Merrit Walker and Janelle Sterling each tallied four points, and teammate Nikki Nauman registered two points.

Zebras stampede

By LORI GILLESPIE
MCN Staff Writer

After defeating Ypsilanti 52-28 in the home opener, Wayne Memorial's girls basketball team went on to punish Romulus 48-23, in an effort coach Chuck Henry called "terrible."

The coach said of their visit to Romulus, "It's nice to win, but we had 22 turnovers. This does not make for a well-played game. As a team, we turned the ball over too much."

Against Ypsilanti, Henry said his team had a pretty good start to the season. Seniors and co-captains Yolanda Holt and Rica Barge lead the team with 27 and 14 points, respectively. "We didn't have to struggle through the whole game thanks to the offensive performance of these two girls," the coach said.

The Zebras are made up of five seniors, one junior, four sophomores, and a freshman. Holt and Barge are the two players with the most basketball experience, according to Henry. "We have two very good players, with a lot of experience surrounding them," he said.

"We would like to compete in the Mega Red," he said.

Private investigator relates unique experiences

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

Every day isn't like the one's experienced by fictional detectives like Mike Hammer or Sam Spade, but a private investigator (PI) does have his share of interesting and intriguing cases.

Roger Kehrier, who operates Pathfinder Investigations in Plymouth, has had his share of interesting experiences in the year since he launched his business.

"I've investigated a couple of homicides," said Kehrier. "The first was the death of the brother of a man I gave a ride to. I confirmed the details that he gave me with the Detroit Police Department, but I wasn't permitted to see the file.

"Although I talked to a lot of people, no one wanted to get involved. I was able to supply some additional information to the Detroit police and the case is still open. We do know there were two shooters and two different hand guns used, and we know the identity of one of the shooters. I'm still trying to do something -- maybe someday we'll know who killed the man's brother."

The second homicide case was that of a Vietnam War buddy of a local man who was assaulted and killed in Detroit.

"I was able to find out that the case had been solved within four months and the subject is now in Jackson Prison -- it was a matter of knowing who to call," Kehrier said.

Often insurance companies call in private investigators to check on claims that do not seem to be legitimate.

For example, Kehrier was called on to check the claim of a man whose girlfriend's car (he held title to it) was reported stolen and later found burned. She claimed that there was a fur coat worth several thousands dollars in the car, $400 in cash in the ash tray and other valuables in the vehicle when it was stolen. Kehrier uncovered evidence to prove that the woman's cousin had stolen and torched the car.

"Often, we find that people who don't play golf will claim that they had expensive golf clubs destroyed in a fire," he said. "In another case, the owner of a burned vehicle claimed that there had been an expensive CD player in it, but there was no wiring in it for a CD."

Determination paid off for Kehrier when he looked through boxes of old receipts from a gas station and found one for two used tires at $30 each, instead of documentation for expensive tires and rims that the owner claimed he bought for his vehicle before it was destroyed.

Kehrier investigated "The Case of the Missing Ring," in which an expensive diamond ring was reported missing from a jewelry case. The woman who owned the ring and her husband were having marital problems, when she removed the ring and placed it in the case. Later, she reported that it was gone, but she could not shed any light on when it disappeared or who might have taken it.

Investigators continue to check pawn shops and jewelers to see whether the ring will turn up, but so far it remains "The Case of the Missing Ring."

"I watched on man limp slowly into a medical office for a check-up of his Worker's Comp disability, and then walk out briskly! I've also seen 'disabled' people bowl and play golf," said Kehrier. "One man who claimed a serious back injury, pulled his boat out of the water himself and lifted it onto the trailer."

Kehrier said that insurance fraud cuts across all walks of life.

"Some people feel that they are entitled to the money, like a 'paid vacation.' Sometimes they rationalize that they aren't taking money from anyone, it's the insurance company's money. They don't realize where the money comes from -- the people who pay the premiums," said the private investigator.

With 25 years of private and governmental investigate experience, including 13 years as Federal Narcotics Agent, Kehrier brings expertise to Pathfinder Investigations in Plymouth.

Editor's note: This is the second of a two-part series on the work of a private investigator

Sen. Loren Bennett

Sportsman to host cable show in October

Wildlife enthusiasts can view an update regarding two opposing statewide ballot proposals which could affect the future of Michigan's wildlife, by tuning into a cable show in October.

The show, "People and Policy, a Common Sense Agenda with State Sen. Loren Bennett" will feature Fred Trost, host of the popular outdoors program, "The Practical Sportsman."

This will be an opportunity for viewers to learn more about

I hope voters also find the program informative and helpful when going to the polls.

him and his background before discussing some serious wildlife issues with Bennett. Trost and Bennett, R-Canton will discuss the fishing climate in Michigan, and two opposing wildlife initiatives that Michigan citizens will vote on in November. The proposals are unique, in that whichever proposal receives the highest number of "yes" votes will prevail. Proposal D, seeks to ban hunters from using bait and dogs for hunting bear. Factors such as the ramifications of an increased bear population will be discussed. Proposal G, seeks to ensure wildlife decisions for the state are made by trained natural resource management professionals.

Bennett said, "The legal language of ballot proposals can be very confusing and I found the discussion of the ballot proposals can be extremely helpful in clarifying the issues. I hope voters also find the program informative and helpful when going to the polls."

MAY THE Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the homeless, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times for 9 days and your prayers will be answered. It has never been known to fail. You must promise to publish. My prayers have been answered.

Pontiac cooks up 'hot one' with Bonneville styling

By Karen Stronski
Automotive Writer

Things are really cookin' at Pontiac. The all new Pontiac Bonneville SSEi is an integral part of the Pontiac lineup for 1996. This responsive four-door combines stylish packaging, thoroughly tested engineering, and efficient performance with more supercharged power.

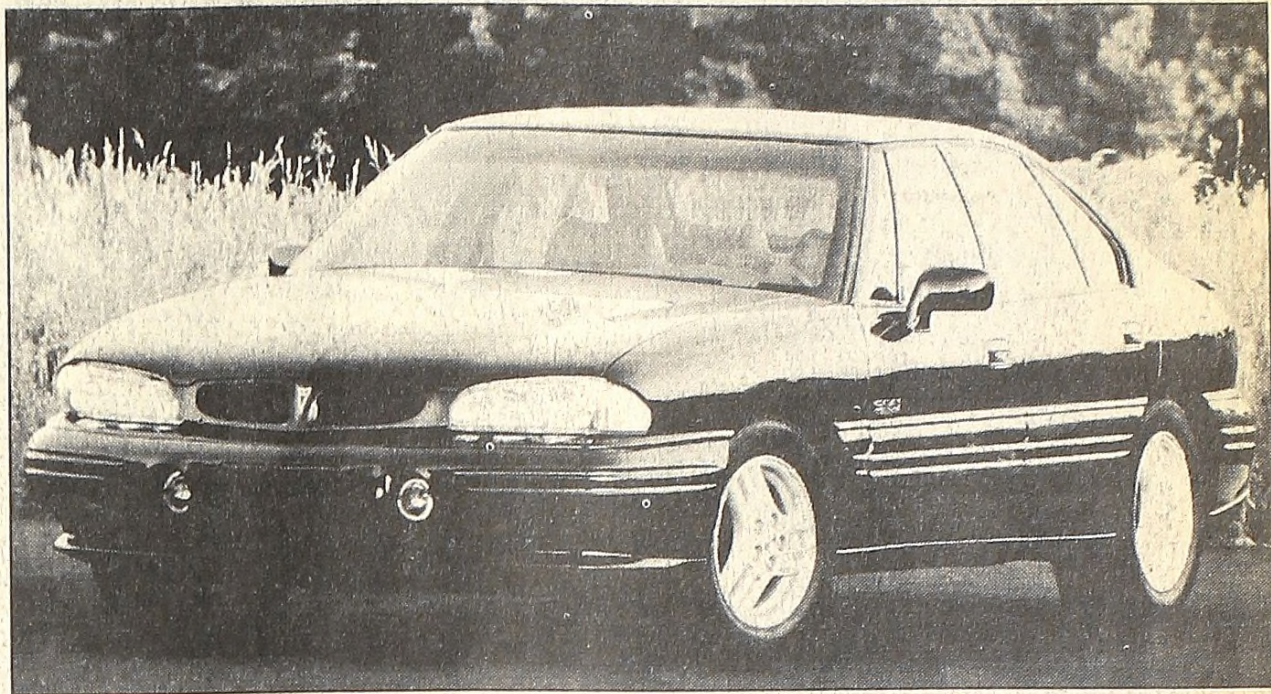

Bonneville's integrated technologies blend the sport of driving with technology. Every component contributes to the experience by improving a driver's control, supplementing safety or amplifying the many individual aspects that comprise quality. Take for example, the vast array of controls that may be found on the console of the SSEi. Driver-controlled shift selection provides a normal or a performance shift mode that maximizes performance with quicker down shifts and higher rpm shift points.

Further enhancing driver input and control, the Bonneville has standard all-speed traction control which enables drivers to hold bad weather at bay by curtailing acceleration-induced wheel spin while traveling slippery roads. Also standard is the computer command ride, daytime running lamps, and their newest feature "Eye Cue" heads-up display which allows you to monitor your speed without ever taking your eyes off the road.

The SSEi literally and figuratively dominates the road. The charge is led by a 240-horsepower V6 supercharged engine that produces more horsepower than many V8's. This 3.8 liter is quick! The exterior is quite upscale and sporty with a standard ground effects package, rear spoiler, and fog lamps. The interior was also nice with leather seats, radio controls on the steering wheel, driver information center and compass, compact disc player and last but not least, power everything. The Bonneville is decked out with most every amenity available to car buffs. However, one feature that I did not like, and found to be very distracting was the multitude of colored lights. On the instrument panel they were red, on the heads-up display they were green, and at dusk they were pink. Come on Pontiac. What gives? It looked like Christmas time in my automobile. Also, I might add that there was an overabundance of plastic used on the doors and the dashboard. For a car of this magnitude and price, (approximately 32,000) one would hope that there would be more leather to match the seats or some cloth to match the leather.

1996 Pontiac Bonneville SSEi

Compared to other sedans in the same classification (Pontiac lists Mazda Millenia, Acura Legend, Dodge Intrepid, and the Nissan Maxima) The Bonneville SSEi rates highly. Its suspension unwinds curves. Its power flattens hills. This exceptional sport sedan from Pontiac proves drivers with technology that puts them in control, surrounds them in a comfortable environment, and gives them the means to awaken their passion for driving. I had a whole lot of fun with this car -- 0 to 60 in a matter of seconds, and the gas mileage wasn't to bad either 17 miles per gallon city and 26 miles per gallon on the highway.

For the demanding driver, the Pontiac Bonneville SSEi delivers without reservation. Because "reserved" is where you park, not how you drive!

Chrysler-Plymouth retailers unveil 'Superstore' concept

Chrysler-Plymouth retailers of Southeast Michigan have a new name, a new outlook and a new approach to leading the dramatic changes occurring in automotive marketing.

The changes are symbolized by presenting themselves in the marketplace as "superstores," rather than "dealers," and by initiating a grass-roots-up innovative advertising and public information program developed and implemented by the regional retail advertising association rather than by the manufacturer, which has been the historical industry practice.

The announcement was made today by Chrysler-Plymouth Association of Southeast Michigan (CPASM) leaders Mark Snethkamp and Bill Golling.

Snethkamp is president of the Chrysler-Plymouth Advertising Association of Southeast Michigan. Golling is president of the Chrysler-Plymouth Association of Southeast Michigan.

"It takes a super store to be a Superstore" is the theme of the campaign which lists the extensive products and services offered by individual CPASM member stores.

"Each of our member retail stores has the unique ability to provide one-stop, top-to-bottom shopping -- everything the customer needs throughout the life of the vehicle," Snethkamp said.

"We believe a superstore is defined by the completeness and comprehensiveness of the products and services provided, and not just by the number of used cars on the lot."

In a first of its kind, grass roots initiative, Chrysler-Plymouth stores in the region are:

* Using the "superstore" concept and dropping the term "dealership" from their operations,

* Emphasizing the full range of services individual Chrysler-Plymouth Superstores provide,

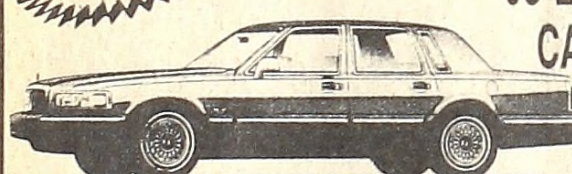

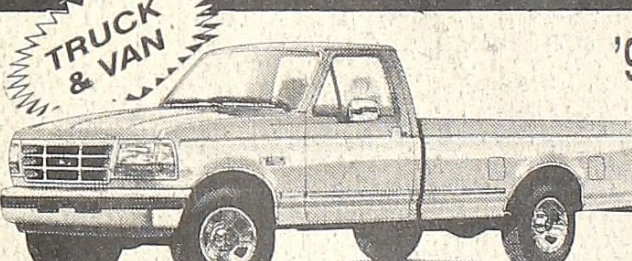

* Starting a public information bureau in downtown Detroit for new media inquires to ensure better information access for consumers.

* Conducting periodic focus groups and survey research for customer feedback to better speed adaptations to the marketplace,

* Using a Chrysler-sponsored "culture change" training program for store personnel to achieve market-best standards in customer service.

The announcement marks the launch of an ongoing, integrated advertising and public information program by the association which includes broadcast, print, outdoor, point-of-purchase, news media relations and employee communications.
